

Texas Central Partners to Host Open House Informational Meetings to Discuss Dallas-to-Houston High-Speed Rail Project

Operator of proposed privately-financed bullet train will meet with members of the public to answer questions, listen to concerns and discuss solutions

Dallas, Texas – April 3, 2015 -- Texas Central Partners (TCP), the company that intends to build and operate high-speed rail service between Dallas and Houston, will host 12 come-and-go Open House Informational Meetings in the Dallas-to-Houston corridor during April. The purpose of these sessions is to provide information about the project, answer questions, listen to concerns and discuss solutions.

“We want to work with the communities, landowners and all stakeholders along the potential route,” said Richard Lawless, chief executive officer of Texas Central Railway. “From the beginning, this project’s goal has been to minimize the impact on communities as much as possible while making a major private investment in the state’s transportation infrastructure. We have listened carefully to all public input to date. In sponsoring these Open House sessions we are hoping to provide another opportunity for residents along the potential route to provide direct input and receive accurate answers as we look for joint solutions.”

About TCR

Texas Central Railway (TCR) is a private, Texas-based company promoting the development of high-speed passenger rail between Houston and Dallas. The deployment of the same safe, efficient, comfortable and fast high-speed rail technology that boasts the world's safest record after more than 50 years of flawless operation in Japan will transform the way business travelers and families alike move between the state's largest metropolitan areas. Formed in 2010, a primary purpose of TCR is to secure environmental and technological regulatory approvals required to advance subsequent phases of the project.

About TCP

Texas Central Partners (TCP) is a private, Texas-based company that will develop the high-speed passenger railway and associated facilities. TCP and its affiliated entities will be responsible for the system's design, finance, construction, operation and maintenance. The proposed project will not request or require grants or operational subsidies backed by taxpayers for its eventual construction and operation.
